Tutoring Experience

With over 2000 hours of teaching experience across IB, A-Level, GCSE, and IGCSE English, I bring a focused and practical approach to my tutoring. Having completed an MPhil in English Studies from the University of Oxford, I have also taught English Literature at the undergraduate level, and my published articles in leading journals reflect my expertise in the field. I provide students with carefully tailored resources, particularly for IB English Literature and Theory of Knowledge, ensuring they grasp complex concepts and excel in their studies.

Tutoring Approach

I believe in a highly individualized approach, adapting each session to the specific needs of my students, whether they are preparing for an IB English Literature exam, crafting their Theory of Knowledge essays, or navigating the challenges of GCSE and IGCSE English. I focus on identifying areas that need improvement while building on existing strengths. My aim is to equip students not just with knowledge but with the critical thinking skills and confidence needed to tackle their exams with precision and clarity.
