Tutoring Experience

I've spent 9 years tutoring students across a range of international curricula, including IB and A-Level English. My students have come from the UK, Canada, and Australia, and I've supported them in achieving excellent exam results. I also focus on helping students improve their essay writing and literary analysis, ensuring they meet their academic goals.

Beyond exam prep, I have experience tutoring students in creative writing, drama, and English literature at all levels. My work extends to supporting students with their personal statements and university applications, offering insights into the writing process that lead to success in higher education.
